A volume of similar theme first appeared one year ago. In it, as in this, was the attempt of a graduating class to record the outstanding achievements and attributes of each student, as well as tribute to the faculty whose unselfish efforts helped make a highlight of our final year of high school.

We have tried, in review, to retrieve happy moments, and by pen and picture have recorded some notation of each student with their respective "fame."

It would seem legitimate for any graduating class to magnify the acts and character of their student body because of the intimacy of sharing of so many experiences for so many years. Woven of this material, is the story of the Class of 1960.

Foreword

Dedication

To you, Mr. McCurdy, whose devotion to duty and goodness of heart has won the respect and admiration of the school and community, without whom our school life would have been so ordinary;

Whose deepest frown and hasty downbeat is a fearful discipline;

Whose smile and nod of head is an amply reward;

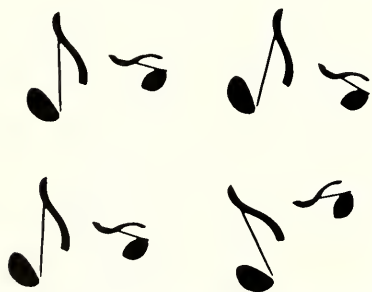

Whose inspiring leadership has helped us make our mark, even though we sometimes fell short of yours;

Who taught us not only the beauty of music and precision of time, but all around beauty;

To you, our beloved "Mac," as meager recompense, but in grateful tribute, we dedicate this, our year-book.

Congratulations to the Class of 1960 upon the successful publication of Volume II of THE BEACON.

"Here Today for Education, Gone Tomorrow to Serve the Nation," your class motto, very well expresses your goals in life. "Here Today for Education" indicates that you are aware of the present opportunities you have to secure knowledge and wisdom. Service, the noblest goal to which you can aspire, will transform your knowledge into wisdom, as that knowledge is used for the good of all mankind. "Gone Tomorrow to Serve the Nation" indicates the acceptance of this challenge by your class, which is graduating at a time in the history of the world designated by some as the American Century.

May you continue to succeed as you adopt and adapt this motto personally.

Unlike virtue, which is its own reward, perseverance to an editor is his most necessary implement and its reward is often elusive.

Our yearbook is too young to be called a tradition, but it is my sincere hope that all the future graduating classes might be ambitious enough to give tradition a chance.

I will gratefully remember the cooperation of staff and faculty members, as well as each contribution of sponsors, patrons, and photographers, all of which has made successful the second edition of THE BEACON.

This year has been a prosperous one for our band. In addition to the many block parties and festivals, it captured prizes at the annual Hagerstown Municipal Halloween Parade, Mercersburg Halloween Parade, and the Hagerstown Christmas Parade. The band also entertained the patients at Mont Alto and the men from nearby labor camps.

A special treat for band members this year, provided for in part by funds from prize winnings, was a trip to Hershey, for a performance of the Ice Follies, a colorful and thrilling experience.
